

FSMA – Working during Quarantine/Isolation

Please know that work during quarantine/isolation option is only for when it is manageable by the student/family. If children are sick, parents are working, etc. we understand and will work with you to create a plan that makes sense for your child.

	What to expect for teaching/learning during a quarantine or isolation period?
When an individual or small group needs to quarantine	Instructional Day 1 – student should complete any work they have at home, complete a journal prompt (provided by the teacher), complete Zearn assignments, and do 2 of the following 3 reading activities for a total of 30 minutes (read to someone, have someone read to you, read independently) Instructional Day 2 through end of quarantine - if possible, student may virtually join some of the small group lessons (depending on tech availability, scheduling, etc.) /teachers will work with families to determine if this is possible. Depending on the grade level, additional work assignments may be provided via Google classroom/email. Important to Note: Teachers will not be changing their in-class schedule or having students join whole group lessons... this is only for small group lessons that it makes sense for *Students who receive special education services will also have the option of joining these groups during the regularly scheduled time.

Other logistics/information:

- Your child's teacher will be in touch to determine a plan for your child. Please be ready to share with the teacher what you are able to do (ex. live lessons or not, access to a computer, child is unable to do work due to illness, etc.). This will be helpful to creating a schedule and providing work/lessons.
- Day 1 is meant to give everyone the time needed to get things in place for instruction at home.
  - This allows teachers time during their work day to plan meaningful instruction, to set up the necessary technology, to put information online as needed
  - This allows families time to plan for coverage and learning during the quarantine, gather materials and technology, etc.
- If a child is quarantining for a subsequent time, they may be able to jump right into Day 2 depending on what the teacher needs to do to make this happen.
- Please know that there will be differences in the plans for older children and younger children. Our Upper School students are used to utilizing Google classroom and can jump right in where younger children may need different support or work. Our goal is to provide meaningful, age-appropriate work and lessons at all grade levels.
